

Here's what other activities personnel have had to say

"Mr. Latini creates a warm atmosphere and is able to engage the most passive patients. By the end of the music session he has most people tapping, singing and smiling along with him"

*Dianna Alderman, CTRS.
Director of Therapeutic Recreation
Heartland of Ann Arbor, MI.*

"He brings a unique style of sing-along songs and involves the residents with the singing."

*Bridget Elkins, A.D.C.
Rivergate Terrace, Riverview, MI.*

"Residents and staff alike enjoy John's musical variety. I have been very pleasantly surprised with the great response to John's interaction with them."

*Kathy Gillaspie, Activities Director
Fairfax Manor, Ypsilanti, MI.*

Tap Your Feet

Consummate Entertainer

John's greatest gift is his ability to draw his audience into each and every song. With his larger-than-life personality, he generates an interactive event and everyone participates. When John leads his audience in a sing along, he gets the whole crowd going, and when he tells his stories, he has their attention. He entertains with an easy charm, a quick wit and a massive musical catalog. His magic extends from children to senior citizens, and everyone in between. He'll make you laugh, he'll make you sing and he may even make you dance! One thing is for certain, when John Latini performs, the audience always wants more.

Clap Your Hands

Musical Program has Therapeutic Value

John's fans show their support!

Scientific studies have shown the value of music on the body, mind, and spirit of children and adults. Medical experts believe it can reduce some symptoms, aid in the healing process, improve physical movement and enrich a patient's quality of life. Music may be used to rekindle long term memories, encourage emotional expression, promote social interaction and provide moments of joy - people benefit from both its calming and stimulating effects. John's sing-along program provides a meaningful and creative activity designed to involve your residents and promote a positive atmosphere in which to motivate sensory stimulation.
